Retiring of the Colors
Troop 570

Thank you to the leadership and parents of Troop 570. For sharing your time, experiences, and your kids with ours, we are grateful. It is a wonderful thing to have so many role models to speak out your child's life. We appreciate you more than we can say.

David's Reflections

When I first started Cub Scouting as a Bear I wanted to be a Boy Scout but didn't know much about the Eagle rank. Upon entering Boy Scouts I quickly became acquainted with most of the boys, including a few older friends. When my Big Buddy from 2nd grade (Alex Mayberry) became an Eagle scout I realized what It actually takes; and who it helps you to become. After becoming an official Eagle Scout, I then looked back at what scouting has done for me. The program helped me make friends, learn essential skills, and it taught me how to persevere.

My Favorite Events

* My first Klondike: On this event I made one of my longest lasting friendships in scouting. This event also taught me how to persevere through ice water and 25 degree weather.

* Camp Muir: In our attempt to reach camp Muir mid-way up Mt. Rainer, we were gently persuaded by inclement weather to retreat back down the mountain. In the end, it was a climb that was challenging and worthwhile.

David's Eagle Project

For my Eagle Project I first started by thinking about who the project would benefit. My choice eventually boiled down to doing a project for a few senior living centers. I knew someone who worked with the Woodinville Rotary Club, and I asked her what kind of projects would be useful to the residents. I was told that the seniors like to garden and some couldn't because being in wheelchairs limited their mobility.

I decided that a project assisting seniors to garden would not be easy, but it was the right project to do. Throughout the design stage ideas were scrapped and I redesigned the project several times. With the help of my father I was able to get the technical and engineering side of things accomplished. After getting a semi final AutoCad design ironed out, I searched for potential material donors.

I remembered that my uncle worked for King County and might be a good contact for such materials. After getting a letter to the road service department, I received a call saying they had what I needed first - plastic Culverts… My father then picked the culverts up and brought them home for processing. The next step was to acquire wood. The wood used for the posts came from King County's accident and DUI pile (which is basically all the signposts that people hit). This wood was de-nailed, cut and planed to the appropriate size. Though the horizontal posts had to be new - along with some of the longer framing pieces. These came at a heavily reduced price at Mill Outlet Lumber. When I began processing the materials, things seemed very rough at first (no pun intended), but as the time for things to come together came near, it was clear that this was going to be an excellent project.
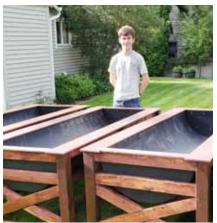

Although the project did have some hiccups such as some of the bracing's angles (not to mention the bandsaw giving up the ghost), the project turned out amazing. Not only did the planters exceed expectations for the residents of the homes, my father and I got a few requests from people to make more! In the end, the project was tough but also very fulfilling and worthwhile.

Thank you to all scoutmasters, scouts and parents who have helped me achieve this rank. You have all helped me to aim higher and achieve my Eagle Scout goals as well as improve the lives of others through my project!
